IX. Special Condition for Grant Subaward with Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) Funds

- Filing Costs for Criminal Charges and Protection

Its laws, policies, and practices do not require, in connection with the prosecution of any misdemeanor or felony domestic violence offense, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking offense, or in connection with the filing, issuance, registration, modification, enforcement, dismissal, withdrawal or service of a protection order, or a petition for a protection order, to protect a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault or stalking, that the victim bear the costs associated with the filing of criminal charges against the offender, or the costs associated with the filing, issuance, registration, modification, enforcement, dismissal, withdrawal or service of a warrant, protection order, petition for a protection order, or witness subpoena, whether issued inside or outside the State, tribal, or local jurisdiction.

- Forensic Medical Examination Payment Requirement for Victims of Sexual Assault

The state or territory, Indian tribal government, unit of local government, or another governmental entity incurs the full out-of-pocket cost of forensic medical exams for victims of sexual assault, coordinates with health care providers in the region to notify victims of sexual assault of the availability of rape exams at no cost to the victims, and does not require a victim of sexual assault to participate in the criminal justice system or cooperate with law enforcement in order to be provided with a forensic medical exam, or to be reimbursed for charges incurred on account of such an exam, or both.

- Judicial Notification

The State's or unit of local government's judicial administrative policies and practices include notification to domestic violence offenders of the requirements delineated in section 922(g)(8) and (g)(9) of title 18, United States Code, and any applicable related Federal, State, or local laws.

- Polygraph Testing Prohibition

Its laws, policies, or practices ensure that no law enforcement officer, prosecuting officer or other Government official shall ask or require an adult, youth, or child victim of an alleged sex offense as defined under Federal, tribal, state, territorial, or local law to submit to a polygraph examination or other truth telling device as a condition for proceeding with the investigation of such an offense.

Under 42 U.S.C. 3796gg-8(b), the refusal of a victim to submit to a polygraph or other truth telling examination shall not prevent the investigation, charging, or prosecution of an alleged sex offense by a state, Indian tribal government, territorial government, or unit of local government.

- Nondisclosure of Confidential or Private Information Regarding Services for Victims

Recipients and Subrecipients shall not:

- (i) disclose, reveal, or release any personally identifying information or information collected in connection with services requested, utilized, or denied through Recipient' and Subrecipient' programs, regardless of whether the information has been encoded, encrypted, hashed, or otherwise protected; or
- (ii) disclose, reveal, or release individual client information without the informed, written, reasonably time-limited consent of the person and/or parent or guardian about whom information is sought, unless the disclosure of the information is compelled by statutory or court mandate. If release of information is compelled by statutory or court mandate, Recipients and Subrecipients shall make reasonable attempts to provide notice to victims affected by the disclosure of information and shall take steps necessary to protect the privacy and safety of the person affected by the release of the information.

- Consultation and Documentation with Local Victim Services Programs

(Applies only to law enforcement, prosecution and the courts)

Tribal, territorial, State, or local prosecution, law enforcement, and courts must consult with tribal, territorial, State or local victim service programs during the course of developing their grant applications. This will ensure that proposed activities and equipment acquisitions are designed to promote the safety, confidentiality, and economic independence of victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking and dating violence.

All appropriate documentation must be maintained on file by the project and available for Cal OES or public scrutiny upon request. Failure to comply with these requirements may result in suspension of payments under the grant or termination of the grant or both and the Subrecipient may be ineligible for subaward of any future grants if the Cal OES determines that any of the following has occurred: (1) The Subrecipient has made false certification, or (2) violates the certification by failing to carry out the requirements as noted above.

Project Narrative

Located in the center of California, the County of Fresno encompasses 5,958 square miles with the eastern boundary located 135 miles from the western boundary. By geographic size, it is the sixth largest county in California. As of July 1, 2015, the total population of Fresno County was estimated to be 974,861 making it the fifth most populous county in California. The County's major urban area, located in the center of the County, is the city of Fresno where approximately 520,000 people live. 454,800 people, or over 46% of the population, reside in the rural regions of the county. Some of these people live in the smaller cities and towns of Fowler, Selma and Kingsburg which are located along the 21 mile stretch of State Route 99 that runs south from Fresno. Others live in the towns of Sanger, Parlier, Reedley, and Orange Cove which are located in the southeastern parts of Fresno County. The remaining residents live in smaller towns and population centers, such as Huron, Coalinga, Mendota, Kerman and Firebaugh, which are scattered over 60 miles of rural agricultural lands in western Fresno County.

Fresno County is one of the most ethnically diverse counties in the state. As of 2014, the residents of Fresno County claimed the following racial identities: 51.9% Hispanic, 30.9% White, 10.7% Asian, 5.9% African American, 5.0% Native American, with over 3% of the population identifying with at least two ethnicities. As of 2014, 44% of the population over 5 years of age spoke a language other than English at home.

(Source: <http://quickfacts.census.gov/>)

Fresno County struggles with poverty and unemployment. As of 2014, 27.5% of the population of Fresno County lived below the poverty line. This is over 10% above the California statewide rate of 16.4%. Fresno County's median household income of $45,201 between the years 2010 and 2014 substantially lags behind the State of California median household income of $61,489. As of March of 2016, the unemployment rate in Fresno County was 10.5%, a figure that significantly surpasses the state unemployment rate of 5.7% and the national unemployment rate of 4.9%. (Source: State of California Employment Development Department)

While Fresno County remains the most productive agricultural county in the nation, exceeding $7 billion dollars in 2014, agricultural laborers face significant hardships. A significant portion of agricultural laborers are undocumented workers who do not speak English. They face unemployment based on changing weather patterns, drought, and seasonal changes. These hardships intensified in 2015 when the severe drought in Central California resulted in The Fresno County Supervisors declaring an emergency. (Source: Fresno County Declares Drought Emergency; March 24, 2015; www.abc30.com.) Although the severity of the drought has decreased in some areas, Fresno County is still considered to be an area of extreme or exceptional drought as of April 2016. (Source: U.S. Drought Monitor) Many of these laborers are also geographically isolated and are often estranged from law enforcement. Also, many of these agricultural laborers come from communities that lack awareness of the devastating consequences of domestic violence.

Poverty and its associated stress is a key contributor to intimate partner violence. Although violence occurs in all socioeconomic groups, it is more frequent and more severe in lower income groups across such diverse settings as the United States, Nicaragua, and India. (Source: The Lancet, Vol. 359, "Intimate Partner Violence: Causes and Prevention." pgs. 1423-1429.) Thus, it is not surprising that Fresno County has an extremely high incidence of domestic violence related crime. In 2014, Fresno County had 6352 domestic violence calls for assistance. (Source: California Department of Justice and California Department of Finance.) According to Kidsdata.org, a program of The Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health, the rate of domestic violence calls for Californians generally is 6 per 1,000 people, but for those living in Fresno County, the rate is a shocking 10.2 per 1,000 people.

According to STAR (DA Case Management System), from January 1, 2015 through December 31, 2015, the Fresno County District Attorney's Office reviewed 9,320 felony filing requests from law enforcement which included 2,440 felony domestic violence filing requests. The Fresno County District Attorney's Office filed 1,457 felony domestic violence cases or 59% of these felony domestic filing requests. Of the 2,440 domestic violence cases submitted for filing, 688 were investigated by rural policing agencies. These rural agencies are the Fresno County Sheriff's Department, and the Police Departments of Clovis, Coalinga, Firebaugh, Fowler, Huron, Kerman, Kingsburg, Orange Cove, Parlier, Reedley, Sanger and Selma. Many of these smaller towns have faced significant budget reductions severely impacting their police departments. Due to budget restrictions in the smaller police agencies, many are staffed by younger, less experienced police officers. In addition, most cannot afford to have dedicated domestic violence investigator positions in their agencies, so investigations are frequently lacking. Fresno County's culturally diverse, large non-English speaking rural population, large geographic area, and high unemployment with associated poverty rates pose a barrier to the effective prosecution of domestic violence crime in the rural areas of the county. These barriers are increased when dealing with rural domestic violence victims who are reluctant to report or cooperate with prosecution because of their residency status or geographical isolation. When combined with cuts to law enforcement budgets, it can make domestic violence prosecution in the rural areas problematic without VAW-VP funding.

In the summer of 2012, access to justice for victims of domestic violence in rural communities was further curtailed when the Fresno County Superior Court announced the closure of all of the satellite courts. Located in the rural communities, the satellite courts of Coalinga, Firebaugh, Reedley, and Kingsburg allowed felony domestic violence victims to attend all court hearings from arraignment to preliminary hearing in close proximity to their places of residence. The courts were closed unilaterally in order to cut costs and they remain closed today. Unfortunately, this has greatly increased the travel time it takes for rural domestic violence victims to get to court. For example, a rural domestic violence victim located in Coalinga must now travel 70 miles each way to Fresno in order to attend court proceedings. A victim in Firebaugh must travel 44 miles each way. Finally, a victim in Orange Cove must travel 33.5 miles each way.

All domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, and sexual assault cases among individuals in domestic relationships that occur in the rural areas of Fresno County are routed to the VAW-VP prosecutor for review to determine if the case meets the project criteria. The cases that are considered “serious and violent felonies”; and therefore meet project criteria include crimes that are listed in California Penal Code Sections 667.5(c) and 1192.7(c) and crimes that involve serious injury, the use of a weapon, repeat domestic violence offenders, the presence of children during the crime, threats of serious bodily injury or death to the victim and/or the victim’s family and cases with multiple victims including children and other family members. Serious injuries include a visible injury requiring medical attention or strangulation to the point where the victim loses consciousness.

With VAW-VP funding, one experienced and highly trained felony prosecutor and one experienced bilingual victim advocate are designated to prosecute rural domestic violence cases. VAW-VP funding allows the prosecutor to have a reduced case load and spend more time working up cases in order to get the most appropriate sentence in each case. The victim advocate uses VAW-VP funding to travel in the VAW-VP funded vehicle to make contact with the victims in the rural communities, provide victim services, and provide transportation to court. Furthermore, many of the rural domestic violence victims speak Spanish as a primary language and the bilingual victim advocate helps the unit prosecutor effectively communicate to each victim the progress of their individual case.

Currently, VAW-VP funding provides for a part-time investigator that is assigned to the unit. The VAW-VP investigator significantly helps develop VAW-VP cases and his work ensures better conviction rates that result in longer prison sentences. Many of the cases submitted to the VAW-VP funded prosecutor are missing essential information that is required to secure a conviction and the rural agencies are unable to conduct further investigation. Therefore, necessary follow-up investigation often falls on the VAW-VP unit. The VAW-VP investigator and VAW-VP prosecutor also combine their experience to provide essential training to the law enforcement officers in the smaller agencies on how to conduct domestic violence investigations. In past grant years, funding for the part-time investigator has been removed from the VAW-VP unit. Continued funding of the part-time investigator helps ensure that the VAW-VP unit is able successfully to prosecute domestic violence in the rural communities.

The VAW-VP Unit has been very successful. During the 2015 grant period, the unit received 36 new felony cases. In the same time period the unit obtained 33 felony dispositions. These convictions resulted in the defendants serving a total of 859 months in custody or almost 72 years. In 2015 the VAW-VP prosecutor trained approximately 130 people on the issues involved in investigation and prosecution of domestic violence cases including treatment program specialists, victim advocates, and law enforcement personnel. The VAW-VP prosecutor also sat on a panel that served to educate the Hispanic community about the role of the District Attorney's Office with regard to domestic violence. Without VAW-VP funding, these serious and violent domestic violence cases committed against rural domestic violence victims would not receive the same high level of attention by an overburdened criminal justice system.

PLAN AND IMPLEMENTATION

a. TRAINING AND QUALIFICATIONS OF ALL PROPOSED STAFF

The VAW-VP Unit consists of a prosecutor with more than twelve years of prosecution experience, a bilingual victim advocate with more than thirteen years of experience and a part-time investigator with more than 21 years of law enforcement experience. The current grant prosecutor was assigned to the unit in February 2015, after previously having been assigned to the unit from 2009-2011. The grant prosecutor has over five years of experience prosecuting felony domestic violence cases. She has handled more than two hundred felony domestic violence cases, has tried six domestic violence jury trials to verdict, and has obtained felony convictions in every trial. The prosecutor has successfully introduced evidence of defendants' other acts of domestic violence, statements of recanting victims, and domestic violence experts to obtain domestic violence convictions. The prosecutor has attended numerous classes dealing with domestic violence and stalking, including a four day conference presented by the National District Attorneys' Association and a three day conference presented by the California District Attorneys' Association. The prosecutor is experienced in providing domestic violence training to law enforcement officers and victim advocates.

The victim advocate was assigned to this Unit in June 2003 and has complied with the Evidence Code Sections 1037-1037.7 mandates. The victim advocate continues to attend different types of related training as courses are offered and the resources allow.

The part-time investigator was recently assigned to the VAW-VP unit. He has 21 years of law enforcement experience and was formerly employed by the Fresno Police Department. His duties while employed by the Fresno Police Department included responding to homicide, attempt homicide, and sexual assault crimes. He also interviewed in-custody felony suspects in sexual assault and domestic violence cases.

b. CRITERIA FOR CASES ASSIGNED TO VAW-VP PROSECUTION

The VAW-VP prosecutor follows the following criteria in assigning cases to the project. First, the victim must initially have given a truthful statement regarding the incident, the extent of the victim's injuries, and identified the perpetrator. This is in response to California Code of Civil Procedure Section 1219. In addition to the first requirement, at least one of the following must apply: 1) the victim sustained a serious, visible injury; 2) the defendant has a documented history of domestic violence; 3) a weapon was used; 4) threats of death or serious bodily injury were made; 5) additional victims, such as children or other family members, were present; or 6) the allegations involved strangulation. The VAW-VP prosecutor also looks for cases where there are corroborating witnesses to all or part of the attack. This is also in direct response to California Code of Civil Procedure Section 1219.

c. PLAN FOR COMMUNICATION AMONG PROJECT STAFF

The current VAW-VP staff has been working well together on all VAW-VP domestic violence cases. Through the use of e-mail, text messaging and direct phone communication, the unit prosecutor, the unit victim advocate and the unit part-time investigator stay in constant contact regarding each case assigned to the VAW-VP grant. Also, the unit prosecutor and the victim advocate are in attached offices and work with an open door policy in order to maximize communication.

d. CASE REFERRAL TO VAW-VP VICTIM ADVOCATE

At the time a case is filed and assigned to the grant, the victim advocate is alerted and directed to initiate contact with the victim for the purposes of informing her or him about the case arraignment date, future potential court hearings and explanation of all available services. The victim advocate continues to assist the victim by attending all court hearings and continuing to offer support to the victim throughout the criminal prosecution process; most often concluding with the defendant's sentencing hearing. The current victim advocate is bilingual in the English and Spanish languages. The victim advocate keeps track of all case referrals and all services received by victims in an electronic database powered by Microsoft Access.

e. RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN LAW ENFORCEMENT AND LOCAL VICTIM SERVICE AGENCIES

The VAW-VP prosecutor initiates and leads the quarterly multi-disciplinary meetings called the Rural Roundtable meeting. The meetings are held at different locations to help increase participation rates among the rural law enforcement agencies and the victim advocacy groups. Each meeting has an agenda, minutes are kept, and attendance is recorded. Also, a comprehensive phone list of Rural Roundtable participants has been created, distributed and kept up to date so all law enforcement groups and victim advocacy groups can quickly provide services to rural victims of domestic violence.

The VAW-VP prosecutor has continued to provide training to law enforcement agencies as stated above. The VAW-VP prosecutor has created and kept up to date a one hour power-point presentation designed to teach law enforcement how to more effectively investigate domestic violence crimes. The VAW-VP prosecutor recently had both a two-hour and four-hour domestic violence update training course certified by POST and has begun to provide those to the rural law enforcement agencies. The VAW-VP prosecutor will continue to teach a two hour class on domestic violence criminal procedure at the Marjaree Mason center for victim advocate certification.

The rural policing agencies in Fresno County refer victims of domestic violence to several different local victim services agencies upon initial contact. In rural western Fresno County, Rape Counseling Service, through the Carmen Meza Center, offers counseling services to sexual assault victims and to domestic violence victims who are victims of sexual assault. They maintain offices in Firebaugh. The Westside Family Services Network, located in Huron, California, offers domestic violence services to victims in the city of Huron and the surrounding area. The Marjaree Mason Center, located in Fresno, California, has assigned a victim advocate to work with the Fresno County Sheriff's Office. The Marjaree Mason Center also runs a domestic violence shelter and provides legal services to domestic violence victims, including victims in the rural communities of Mendota, Kerman and San Joaquin. All of the victim services agencies regularly attend the Rural Roundtable Meetings and the VAW-VP bilingual victim advocate constantly keeps in contact with each agency.

f. AGENCY IMPLEMENTATION OF REQUIRED POLICIES

The VAW-VP prosecutor makes a concerted effort to prevent the pre-trial release of a charged defendant. Methods employed include moving the court to set appropriate bail for the arraignment hearing, correctly identifying and charging all applicable sentencing enhancements in the criminal complaint, objecting to bail reduction below the local bail schedule amount, moving to increase bail beyond the local bail schedule amount when warranted, and making all appropriate legal objections and arguments including the use of California Penal Code Section 1270.1 to prevent the court from ordering the defendant to be released from custody prior to trial.

The VAW-VP prosecutor makes all reasonable prosecutorial efforts to reduce the time between arrest and final disposition of the case. This is achieved by objecting to all continuances and delays unless there is good cause as defined by law, promptly providing discovery to defense counsel, and being prepared to proceed as soon as possible for either a preliminary hearing or a jury trial.

The VAW-VP prosecutor and victim advocate maintain a reduced caseload. This is achieved by selecting only cases that meet the defined grant case criteria and monitoring the caseload to determine if more rigid or lenient criteria need to be implemented in order to maintain the reduced caseload. The caseload for both the VAW-VP prosecutor and victim advocate are recorded in electronic databases powered by Microsoft Access which allows for the preparation of grant reports and ensures accurate statistics are recorded.

g. STAFF SELECTION

The prosecutor assigned to the grant must have previous significant experience prosecuting domestic violence cases. All potential grant prosecutors must have at least two years of felony trial experience before they are eligible for assignment to the VAW-VP grant.

The victim advocate must have at least two years of experience working with domestic violence victims and must have attended domestic violence advocacy training. Also, the victim advocate must speak Spanish as a second language. The victim advocate must meet all requirements set forth in Evidence Code Sections 1037-1037.7. All staff must be assigned to the VAW-VP Unit for at least 18 months and positions are rotated as infrequently as possible so as to maintain individual relationships with victims, law enforcement officers, and victim advocates.

The current VAW-VP prosecutor has nine years of felony trial experience with seven years of felony domestic violence trial experience. The current prosecutor has been assigned to the VAW-VP grant since February 2015 but was previously assigned to the grant for two years from 2009 to 2011. The current VAW-VP victim advocate is bilingual, has thirteen years of experience and has been assigned to the VAW-VP grant for thirteen years. The back-up VAW-VP prosecutor has nearly thirty years of trial experience and is the Chief Deputy District Attorney of the Domestic Violence Unit.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVESa. During the Grant Year the Project Will Vertically Prosecute 35-45 Cases Involving Serious and Violent Domestic Violence Crimes

The VAW-VP Unit has accepted the following number of cases in the previous grant years.

| GRANT YEAR (July 1 to June 30) | Accepted Cases |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| 2006-2007 | 35 |
| 2007-2008 | 33 |
| 2008-2009 | 40 |
| 2009-2010 | 43 |
| 2010-2011 | 45 |
| 2011-2012 | 43 |
| 2012-2013 | 33 |
| 2013-2014 | 32 |
| 2014-2015 | 26 |
| 2015-2016 | 36 |

The VAW-VP Unit expects to accept and prosecute 35-45 cases in the July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017 grant year. In the current grant year, the VAW-VP Unit has seen a high number of accepted cases involving extreme violence or cases where the defendant had multiple prior "strike" convictions. Currently, there are three serious stabbing cases and three sexual assault cases pending jury trial. All of these cases require extensive preparation and follow-up investigation in order to secure a successful prosecution.

b. OF THE CASES VERTICALLY PROSECUTED, 80% WILL BE PROSECUTED USING TRUE VERTICAL PROSECUTION, 10% WILL BE PROSECUTED USING MAJOR STAGE VERTICAL PROSECUTION, AND 10% WILL BE PROSECUTED USING UNIT VERTICAL PROSECUTION

In previous grant years, the Fresno County District Attorney's Office had set a goal of prosecuting 65% of grant cases using true vertical prosecution. An unintended consequence of the closure of the satellite courts has been that all rural domestic violence cases are now heard in Fresno, California. The VAW-VP Unit prosecutor no longer makes appearances in the satellite courts and is better able to manage her court calendar. The only time the Unit prosecutor does not personally make an appearance on a case is when the prosecutor is in trial or taking approved leave. The Fresno County District Attorney's Office has been successful in achieving its increased vertical prosecution goal set last year of 80% true vertical, 10% major stage vertical and 10% unit vertical prosecution.

All cases are reviewed for crime charging by the VAW-VP Unit prosecutor and processed by a domestic violence unit secretary or office assistant. This allows the VAW-VP Unit prosecutor to personally manage the appearance schedule and personally cover as many hearings as possible while managing the trial calendar. The VAW-VP Unit prosecutor consistently will attempt to exceed the proposed vertical prosecution goal of 80% whenever possible by working with court staff to limit calendaring conflicts. When the VAW-VP Unit prosecutor is unavailable to cover a Unit case, there is one designated back up prosecutor who has nearly thirty years of experience prosecuting criminal cases, ten of those years in the domestic violence unit.

c. DURING THE GRANT PERIOD, VICTIM ADVOCACY WILL PROVIDE SERVICES TO 35-45 VICTIMS

The unit victim advocate's role is to help guide victims through the often intimidating and confusing criminal justice system. This begins as soon as a case is selected for unit prosecution. The VAW-VP Unit prosecutor immediately informs the victim advocate of the case selection. The advocate then makes her own file on the case and immediately attempts to make contact with the victim by phone in order to introduce herself and to assess the victim's needs. In addition, the advocate mails an introductory letter to the victim within five days of case selection. If repeated attempts to make contact with the victim by phone are unsuccessful, the victim advocate makes a home visit to the victim as long as it is safe to do so.

The victim advocate attends all court appearances with the prosecutor in order to assist the victim in court, answer any questions about the court process, and act as a support person to the victim. The victim advocate is able to provide transportation for the victim to and from court if needed. The victim advocate is the contact person for the victim throughout the case to provide support, keep the victim informed, and offer insight to the VAW-VP Unit prosecutor regarding the concerns and attitudes of the victim. Additionally, the victim advocate offers educational materials, makes referrals to community service agencies for counseling and other services, and helps the victim fill out Victim Restitution Fund applications. She provides assistance with transportation to other related locations, such as to community service agencies offering legal services to domestic violence victims on issues such as restraining orders or child custody and to medical appointments related to the victimization.

With the closure of the Fresno County satellite courts, it has become even more important for the Fresno County District Attorney's Office to continue to receive funding for the VAW-VP victim advocate. In the past, victims of rural domestic violence often would show up at the satellite court locations for the initial arraignment and this would provide a first opportunity for the victim advocate to meet the victim in person. However, now with all cases being heard in downtown Fresno, the victim advocate has to make more trips into the rural areas in order to meet and provide services to the rural domestic violence victims. Many of our victims do not have access to regular transportation, regular mail service, or regular telephone service. The VAW-VP victim advocate is becoming the only reliable tool that the Unit prosecutor has to reach the rural domestic violence victims.

d. DURING THE GRANT PERIOD, THE ASSIGNED PROSECUTOR WILL ATTEND FOUR MULTIDISCIPLINARY MEETINGS AND THE ASSIGNED VICTIM ADVOCATE WILL ATTEND FOUR MULTIDISCIPLINARY MEETINGS.

Rural Roundtable Domestic Violence Meetings are held quarterly. The last meetings have been held at the Kerman Community Center, the Reedley Community Center, and the Clovis Police Department. The next meeting is scheduled for July, 2016. The meeting location rotates among rural policing agencies and victim services organizations to ensure the attendance of as many members as possible. At those meetings, the VAW-VP prosecutor and victim advocate meet with victim advocates, counselors, shelter representatives, and members of law enforcement. The meetings allow members the opportunity to exchange information and ask questions with the ultimate goal of improving services to domestic violence victims in the rural communities.

Although the meeting is held consistently on the third Tuesday of the month, all agencies are e-mailed a meeting reminder two weeks prior to the meeting and are given the opportunity to provide meeting topics that can be addressed during the meeting. The VAW-VP prosecutor creates the agenda and an attendance list is kept of all meeting participants. The VAW-VP prosecutor has met all of the directors of the victim service organizations and many of the Police Chiefs that oversee the rural policing agencies at the Rural Roundtable meeting. The Rural Roundtable continues to be a great tool to ensure there is open dialogue between the different agencies and provides a vehicle for the swift resolution of issues.

e. DURING THE GRANT PERIOD THE ASSIGNED PROSECUTOR'S CASELOAD WILL BE REDUCED FROM 40 TO 20 AVERAGE ACTIVE MONTHLY CASES

The Fresno County District Attorney Domestic Violence Team consists of nine attorneys assigned to prosecute felony domestic violence cases that occur inside the city limits of Fresno, California, and rural domestic violence cases not meeting VAW-VP guidelines. The unit is supervised by a Chief Deputy District Attorney. She handles day to day administration, provides coverage for attorneys in trial or out of the office, makes filing decisions on pending requests for criminal prosecutions, but does not carry a caseload. Four of the prosecutors are assigned as full time trial deputies and carry a large caseload of domestic violence cases that are past preliminary hearing. Four of the prosecutors are assigned preliminary hearing blocks as well as a small number of vertically prosecuted trials. The monthly average caseload for a domestic violence prosecutor is approximately 40 active cases per month. The average caseload of the VAW-VP prosecutor is approximately 20 cases per month. This reduced caseload has enabled the grant prosecutor to participate in the initial investigation of the case, form close working relationships with rural law enforcement officers, travel to outlying areas, meet personally with victims and witnesses before court and ultimately improve conviction rates in grant cases.

The VAW-VP prosecutor will continue to maintain a reduced caseload through the strict employment of the grant case acceptance criteria as stated in the "CRITERIA FOR CASES ASSIGNED TO VAW-VP PROSECUTION" section of this narrative. The unit prosecutor remains focused on the grant objectives and policies including the goals of true vertical prosecution, the reduction of the pre-trial release of defendants and the reduction of the time period between arrest and the final case disposition.

Budget Narrative

The proposed Violence Against Women Vertical Prosecution Project budget supports one level IV Deputy District Attorney, one Victim Advocate and one Senior DA Investigator position. All items included in the budget are devoted 100% to “project” activity.

This budget directs 100% of the $283,862 total cost to salaries and benefits in direct support of the project. Salaries and benefits make up 100% of the budget and fund the project prosecutor who is an experienced Deputy District Attorney IV with felony trial and DV experience, the bilingual Victim Advocate who has attended advocate training and 17% FTE Senior DA Investigator. Operating expenses will be funded by Fresno County.

The level IV Deputy District Attorney position will ensure that the project prosecutors will be highly experienced in the handling of felony trial matters. The Senior DA Investigator will assist the prosecutor with case related investigation and be highly experienced in the handling of felony trial matters. The Victim Advocate position will have experience in dealing with victims and will possess education/training as specified in Evidence Code Sections 1035.5-1036 (Domestic Violence) and/or 1037.1-1037.8 (Sexual Assault) and/or Penal Code section 13835.10 (Victim/Witness) as outlined in the Program Guidelines. The Unit’s victim advocate will work cooperatively with the Marjaree Mason Center, the Fresno County Sheriff’s Department and other interested community agencies to provide services. Those services include the following activities: 1) crisis intervention, 2) emergency assistance, 3) resource and referral assistance, 4) direct counseling, 5) assist with victim of crime claims, 6) property return, 7) orientation to the criminal justice system, 8) court escort, 9) presentations and trainings for criminal justice agencies, 10) public presentations, 11) case status, 12) notification of family/friends, 13) employer notification/intervention and 14) restitution.

The current victim advocate is bilingual, has over 12 years’ experience in the current VAW-VP program, and has handled over 330 VAW-VP cases.

The above-mentioned prosecutor-victim advocate partnership as supported in the budget is well positioned to effectively achieve the stated goals of the project.

This project will not require subcontractors or have any unusual expenditures.

Program staff does not have a planned cost of living adjustment for 2016-17.
