Allegation/Issue re: Bernard's Bid	Response from Bernard's	Staff Determination	Legal Authority
Bid Security Form omitted.	N/Aissue was raised and addressed by County staff.	Immaterial Deviation may be waived	Menefee v. County of Fresno
Alleged failure to list subcontractor for communications.	Communications work was included in the scope of work (Detention Equipment/Security Electronics) to be performed by CML Security	The prime contractor defines the work descriptions in its own bid, and this approach does not make the bid-nonresponsive.	PCC § 4104(b).
Division 26 subcontractor amount not enough to complete scope of work. Bid is "unbalanced."	Sebastian is only completing Division 26 (Electronics) for Bernards, not Divisions 27 and 28.	Documentation was provided that supports the accuracy of Bernards' electrical subcontractor listing.	N/A – no statutory requirement that a bid must be "balanced."
Alleged failure to list subcontractor for roofing work.	Not required because quote was less than 1/2 of 1% of Bernards' bid. Documentation was provided that supports this.	If a contractor omits a subcontractor, it is presumed prime contractor will-self perform that work. Board can impose penalties on contractor who adds subcontractors after award.	PCC § 4106.
Painting Subcontractor Prime Coat LLC does not have a current active license	Prime Coat LLC's license was suspended due to insurance issue. It has submitted new certificate to CSLB, issue is being resolved.	Bernards provided documentation supporting its explanation. In any event, listing an unlicensed subcontractor does not make contractor's bid non-responsive.	DH Williams Construction v. Clovis Unified
Structural steel subcontractor is claimed to be "unqualified" based on "installer" qualifications listed in the project specifications.	Structural steel subcontractor listed by USS also does not meet the same provision of the project specifications.	This gave Bernards no "unfair competitive advantage," since USS also was non-compliant with the requirement. The deficiency may be waived as a minor irregularity.	Supported by numerous case authorities.
