General Overview of Real Estate Fraud Cases:

Typically, real estate fraud cases involve extensive investigation and the gathering of numerous documents from various sources. These complex investigations can take anywhere from three months to three years or more to investigate and prosecute to conclusion. Investigations require interviewing victims, witnesses, mortgage and title/escrow companies, and more. Most investigations require search warrants for documents and/or bank records.

An example of a real estate fraud scenario is:

Defendant puts his/her name on the deed to a property in which he/she has no interest. Defendant then gets a loan on the property without the homeowner's knowledge. Defendant pockets the money from the loan. The homeowner is notified by the lender when no mortgage payments are made and learns of the fraudulent loan.
