ABOUT US

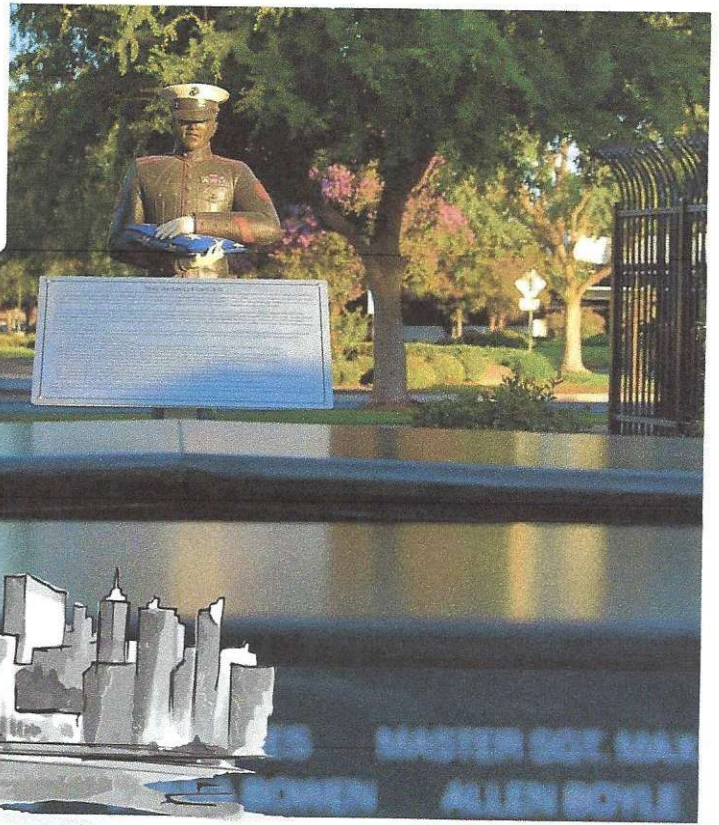

The California 9-11 Memorial in Clovis, CA is a permanent monument built by Pelco and CEO David McDonald to honor and remember the 2,977 people lost in the horrific 9/11 terrorist attack. Each year, citizens, first responders, and military personnel gather at the site to perform a tradition-steeped ceremony, honoring the brave spirits who gave their lives to save others. This commemoration ceremony and dedicated monument are the largest of their kind outside of New York City.

The memorial partners with the Fresno County Superintendent of Schools to establish the One Voice event, a musical gathering that unites local junior and high school students, as well as community members, to sing in honor of the brave. Public safety agencies, community organizations, and the school district all collaborate to promote community participation and remembrance.

Officially established in 2019, the California 9-11 Memorial is a 501 (c) 3 non-profit benefit organization.
